

Abstract

Provided is a device for triggering ignition circuits, a coupling being provided between a positive output stage and negative output stage of different pairs. Each positive and 5 each negative output stage is assigned a diagnostic unit and a drive circuit.

(Figure 2)